ARREST COUPLE PENDING PROBE INTO SHOOTING

Man Believed to Be Edward O'Connell Meets Death In Restaurant

STATEMENTS CONFLICT

Woman Alleged To Have Fired Fatal Shot In Cleveland

Cleveland, July 26.—An attempted flirtation with Mrs. Mabel Barnett, young and pretty, in the Downing restaurant in the heart of the Euclid Ave., theatre district resulted in the killing, early today of Edward O'Connell, 31, whose home is said to be at Geneva on the Lake, Ohio, according to police theory.

A man giving the name of Clifford Barnett, 28, 728 East Sandusky St., Kansas City, Mo., and a woman who is registered at police headquarters as Mrs. Mabel Barnett, and refusese to give her home address, are held for questioning at police headquarters, after they had attmpted to flee the scene of the killing in a Cadillac touring car, bearing two Texas licence numbers.

The woman asserts that she is the wife of Barnett, while he declares that he saw her for the first time yesterday afternoon. She states that her husband's father is a wealthy Texas oil operator and that they have been touring New York and other eastern cities, and stopped for a few days on their way west in Cleveland.

Scores of diners in the restaurant early this morning saw the altercation which preceeded the killing. The couple registered as Mr. and Mrs. Barnett had scarcely entered the dining room when O'Connell seated himself at the same table. Then the angry voics of the two men were heard in heated altercation. Witnesses say a blow was struck,. A revolver pulled, then three shots in rapid succession rang out and O'Connell fell to the floor. He died on his way to the hospital. The man and woman attempted to make a get away in their car parked outside the resaurant but were arrested by Patrolman Buhl as they steepped into the machine.

"I did not do it. Why don't you ask him?", the girl said again and again when questioned at police headquarters. "Why should I care if they charge me with murder. I've got tuberculosis anyway and I'll be dead before they can try me."

Efforts to learn further facts of the girl were met only with the statement: "Ask him," pointing to the man she said was her husband. "I didn't do it."

The man held at police headquarters told a different story. He said that he entered the restaurant with the woman and that as they were sitting down at a table, O'Connell struck him in the face, by accident. An argument followed in which, it is said, O'Connell pulled the revolver which was knocked from his hand, picked up by the girl and discharged.

The auto bears the number "Texas 689,091."

The woman registered at police headquarters under the name of Mrs. Mabel Burnett. She refused to give her home address. A check up today of the story told by the man disclosed some discrepancies which police are now investigating. When taken to police headquarters he said he was registered at the hotel Statler, but a check up of the guest list failed to reveal the name he gave.

Kansas City, Mo., July 26.—"I have a brother, Clifford Barnett, but he is not in Cleveland," said Mrs. Mary Jonach of 728 Sandusky Avenue, this city, when questioned about the shooting of Edward O'Connell in a Cleveland restaurant today. "I saw Clifford as late as Monday. He is in this city and my husbnd will produce him today if necessary," she added.

According to Mrs. Jonach, her brother is a waiter and came here from Omaha last week. She said she had heard him mention friends in Clevelnd and declared that in her opinion the man held in connection with the shooting of O'Connell had used her brother's name. Her brother owned no motor car and had gone on no trip, she stated.

Dallas, Tex., July 26.—The automobile license No. 689,091 mentioned in dispatches from Cleveland in connection with a row in a restaurant there in which one man was killed, is shown in the lists of the state highway department as belonging to Mrs. Clara M. Champion, residing at the Jefferson hotel, Dallas. It is given as a Cadillac car. The register at the Jefferson hotel shows no Mrs. Champion although a Mr. Champion checked out Tuesday giving no address.

FAIL TO MAKE PROPHECY

Columbus, July 26.—Members of the State Utilities Commission today would not prophecy the probable effect upon the Ohio coal situation of the operation of the priority coal shipment plan approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Members, however, expressed little fear of the state being cut off without any coal shipments as was the case during the recent world war.

IRISH IRREGULARS RUSH ACTIVITIES IN CITY OF DUBLIN

Two Bomb Outrages In Center of City Occur Wednesday.

Dublin, July 26.—Turning from their drive southward the free state troops this afternoon are lunging westward to clean up the rebels in the western counties. Free staters have captured Castlebar. The rebels have abandoned Swinford, Charlestown and Kiltimagh. Some of the irregular troops are reported to have mutinied. One irregular mutineer was said to have been tried by court martial and executed.

Belfast, July 26.—Irregular soldiers are tearing up the railroads in the Malahide region to cut communication between Belfast and Dublin, according to word from that region today. Rail communication had been interrupted between the two cities during the battle of Dublin but subsequently was restored.

Dublin, July 26.—Activities on the part of the republican irregulars have been steadily increasing in this city during the past twenty-four hours. There were two bomb outrages in the center of the city early today. Revolver and rifle fire was almost continuous. Seven persons were arrested as snipers.

The situation throughout reland continues favorable for the free state troops.

The lord mayor of Cork is heading a delegation to Dublin which will attempt to bring about a truce. They will ask that the new dail eireann form a peace committee to work out a settlement between the rebels and free staters.

Members of the Irish provisional government said that the resignation of George Gavan Duffy as foreign minister would not alter the strong policy of Michael Collins.

Collins is determined to "clean up" Ireland once and for cision between the supporters of the free state and rebels.

CONFESSES SLAYING OF MAN TO POLICE

Cincinnati, July 26.—Thomas Scott 52, Negro expressman, who was held by the police after firemen fighting a blaze in his room found the body of a naked white man lying in the cellar, confessed late Tuesday he had killed the man with a hatchet following an argument over room rent. His victim was identified several hours later as William Shire, son of a Winchester, Ind., restaurant keeper and grocer. The identification was established by Shire's Cincinnati sweetheart, Miss Margaret Franz and later another woman who knew him substantiated Miss Franz' statements.

They said that Shire had planned to go into the bootlegging business with Scott who ran a sporting house on Carlisle Avenue and catered to both negroes and whites. Shire was known to most of his Cincinnati associates only as the "millionaire" because of the large sums of money which he always displayed and the police believe that robbery was the incentive Scott had for killing him. The Negro denied this however. He confessed having slain Shire with a hatchet and then saturating his own rooms with kerosene which he ignited.

DEMAND THAT ROADS ADHERE TO CUT OF 10 PER CENT IN COAL FREIGHT RATES

State Utilities Has Under Consideration Joint Request Of Southern Ohio Operators and Manufacturing Concerns.

Columbus, July 26.—The State Utilities Commission today has under consideration the joint request of Southern Ohio Coal operators, Cleveland, Toledo, Lorain, Mansfield, Akron and Canton chamber of commerce, and Northern Ohio manufacturing concerns for an order directing Ohio railroads to adhere strictly to the approximately 10 per cent cut in coal freight rates, as ordered by the Interstate Commission effective July 1, last.

The commission's hearing was completed here late yesterday. The complaints advised the commission that they would rest their case on the completion of the testimony. The railroads are to submit a joint brief not later than Monday. The briefs will be considered by the commission before any decision is reached.

Members of the commission declared that the order will be effective only from date of issuance, provided the complainants request is granted and no refunds will be ordered paid by the railroads to shippers.

The complainants claimed that the railroads by dividing the coal fields of southern Ohio and West Verginia into three shipping districts, and applying a differential scale rate in adjusting traffic schedules to the new rate discriminated against the Ohio shipper in favor of the West Verginia field shippers.

Contribution Offered By Harding On Centennial

President Has Place In Bound Volume of Marion Celebration

Marion, July, 26.—In a letter received by John M. Bugel, secretary of the Marion centennial committee, President Harding offers this contribution to the bound volume which is to be put away for the celebration of Marion's 200th birthday 100 years hence:

"Your letter of July 10 to Secretary Christian has been brought to my notice. I am very glad to know that you are compiling a bound record of the minutes, reports and communications, along with newspaper clippings, etc., relating to the Marion centennial.

"It will be very pleasing to me to have a place in the record as saying that I looked upon the centennial celebration as a very notable success of which present day Marion may well be proud.

I could not witness the entire program, and could be a participant in only a very small part thereof, but I can testify to the satisfactory impression which the centennial, as a whole, left upon those who read about it in any way. I was exceptionally mpressed by the historcal pageant and parade which took place on the afternoon of July 5 and held it to be one of the most commendable productions in that line which has come to my attention anywhere in the entire country.

"It will be fine to have a record of these things and it affords us an interesting speculation if we undertake to wonder what Marion of a tionally impressed by the historical century hence will do in a celebration of the progress made in the intervening 100 years."

Borah Blames Alleged Plot To Crush Union Labor For Strike Situation

Says Big Interests Hoped to Use Large Army to Crush Labor.

Washington, July 26.—Destruction of union labor, deliberately planned by capital upon termination of world war was declared by Senator W. E. Borah chairman of the senate labor committee today to be the fundamental underlying cause of the existing coal and railroad situation.

Senator Borah recalled that he had charged when he fought the last army appropriations bill that the "real danger of a big military establishment was that capital hoped and expected to employ it against union labor.

"Recent developments certainly seem to justify the view I took of a large army then, and which I still hold now," Borah declared. "One reason certain big interests supported and encouraged the presidential aspirations of General Leonard Wood in 1920 was that they were confident if he were elected to the White House he would place a battalion of soldiers at the doorway of union labor wherever and whenever those interests deemed the use of armed forces necessary to crush union labor."

Borah said he was "deeply concerned about the incalculable hardships" the continued deadlock was bound to impose upon the great masses of the people.

"In its determination to crush union labor, capital started out, as soon as the world war was finished, to deflate wages, to slash them irrespective of whether they were reduced below the level of the living wage' or not," Borah continued. "And yet no deflation of wages can be justified as long as living conditions remain as they are, and living condition are certain to continue as they are unless there is a reduction in living costs all along the line and there can be no reduction in living costs unless there is a corresponding reduction in present extravagant expenditures and taxation. The evil of the industrial situation confronting us is an economic one and its only solution is economically from the top down and the bottom up."

Borah said he believed "nationalization control of the coal industry was inevitable and that this belief led him to introduce his bill for the creation of a commission to delve into the coal situation for the last ten years.

"The production of coal is just as vital to the welfare of the people as is transportation and it is imperative that there should be government regulation of the coal industry," Borah said.

He hoped to have his committee act promptly on his bill and report it favorably to the senate so it might be passed at this session of congress.

"I am of the opinion that the present strike could have been averted if the government had stepped in at the outset and compelled the operators to live up to their contract with the miners to consider the wage question within thirty days of the expiration of the former scale".

WAR TIME REGULATION OF RAILROADS GOES INTO EFFECT OVER THE NATION

If B. and O. Move Successful End of Walkout Is In Sight.

Detroit, Mich., July 26.—A threat that the 400,000 maintenance men employed on the nation's railroads will go on strike because of alleged action of certain eastern roads in attempting to form company organizations to take the place of international brotherhoods and the action of guards employed by the railroads was made here today at headquarters of the International Brotherhod of Maintenance of Way employes and railway shop laborers.

Chicago, July 26.—"Stand firm and tick together," appeared today to be the slogan of the striking railway shopmen as negotiations for settlement of the walkout reached a stage where each side apparently was waiting for the next move of the opposition. The faces of the union leaders, headed by B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor, were set firm against any "separate peace" with individual railroads. The strike leaders likewise were showing no indications of receding from the original platform announced when the strike began as the basis upon which labor would settle.

Much interest was being manifested here in the efforts of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, to reach a separate agreement with employes of that road. Railroad executives awaited the outcome of the conferences at Baltimore with the belief that if the Baltimore and Ohio is able to effect a separate peace, similar action can be taken by other roads.

Union leaders openly admit that if the Baltimore and Ohio peace move is successful and other roads take a similar course it will mean failure of the strike.

Several overtures from regional leaders of the strikers to be allowed to negotiate separate agreements with the railroads have been vigorously discouraged by Jewell and his associates, it is known. It is also reported on excellent authority that several railroad executives have come to Jewell with proposals for separate peace and have been emphatically turned down.

The stand of the strike leaders is that any peace agreement must apply to all railroads of the country and evidences today were that they were "digging in" for a finish fight to achieve this end.

With the announcement from the White House at Washington that the government has no plan for settlement of the rail strike "that is not founded upon the railroad labor board to carry out the mandate given it by congress," the opinion prevailed today that the government has decided, for the present at least, to let the warring factions "fight it out." Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the labor board, reiterated his declaration that the board "contemplates no action for the present." As evidence of its attitude the board today was proceeding with the adjustment of routine matters having no bearing upon the strike situation.

BANDIT IS KILLED AS DEPUTY OPENS FIRE AFTER HOLDUP

Deputy Sheriff of Kent, Is Seriously Wounded Early Wednesday

Akron, ., July 26.—Deputy Sheriff Frank Parric of Kent was shot through the neck and seriously wounded and an unknown bandit was shot and instantly killed in a pitched battle near Geauga Lake at 1 o'clock this morning.

Three men in an automobile approached Parris, who was walking along the road and attempted to hold him up. Parri resisted. He opened fire and the bandits ran back to their car. They then open fire on Parri, one of the bullets penetrating his neck.

While lying on the ground, Parri continued to fire, one of his shots striking the unidentified bandit in the back, killing him instantly. The body of the dead bandit was hurled from the automobile into a ditch by his companions who drove away. Police here say a second bandit was wounded. Cuyahoga and Portage county officials are seeking the escaped bandits.

PENNSYLVANIA COAL AWAITS SHIPMENT FROM STATE MINES

Thousands of Tons Expected To Be Moved Under Priority Order.

Washington, Pa., July 26.—Operators and striking miners in the coal fields of southwestern Pennsylvania anxiously awaited today effects of the first peace time declaration of a national industrial emergency.

Thousands of tons of soft coal above the ground in these fields and in cars which have idled on tracks for months are expected to be moved immediately under priority shipments rights granted by the government. No trouble is anticipated should movements be put under way. Quiet prevails throughout this entire district.

Operators are making preparations for the reopening of Montour mine No. 4, at Hills Station, near Morganza and the Hendersonville mines. A continued influx of strikebreakers is reported and some are at work on the dumps at the Montour mine, putting it in shape for working.

MERGER OF MINES IS NOW ANNOUNCED

Cincinnati ,July 26.—Seven mines with a total acreage of 38,000, a small line of railwayand a patential production of a million tons annually were taken into a commercial coal company organized through a merger completed Tuesday by Northern Kentucky capitalists meeting in this sity. The capitalization has been fixed at $2,500,000. The new corporation has been named the Log Mountain Consolidated Coal Company and the most of its holdings lie in Bell county, Ky., with a small acreage in the adjoining Tennessee county. The merger was brought about largely through the efforts of John Hoffman, president of the Hignite Coal Company and vice president of the Kentucky Fuel Company, who has had the idea in mind since 1915.

Properties taken in by the consolidation include the Hignite Coal Mining Company, the Yellow Creek Coal Company, the Mingo Coal and Coke Company, the Bennett's Fork Coal Mining Company, and the Log Mountain Coal Company. In addition to Mr. Hoffman and capitalists of Cincinnati, Covington and Newport.

THOMAS IS NAMED THEATRICAL CHIEF

New York July 26.—Augustus Thomas, playwright has been chosen executive chairman by the Producing Managers' Association to direct the mutual intersts of all elements of the theatrical producing industry, to amellioriate the difficulties existing between these elements and to serve the theater in a capacity similiar to that held by Will Hays in the motion picture industry and by Commissioner Landis in the field of organized baseball.

The decision to delegate wide powers in the producing field to one man, President Sam H. Harris of the Producing Managers' Association said, was made two months ago and its aclomplishment necessitated an amendment in the constitution and by-laws of the organization.

Mr. Thomas was chosen to serve for three years and his salary was reported to be large.

ROADS MERGED INTO ONE BIG ORGANIZATION

Will Operate Under Orders To Move Food and Fuel Above All Else.

I. C. C. IN CONTROL

Move Is Only Poultice But It Will Give Government Time.

Washington, July 26—The nation went back to war time regulation of the railroads today while peace in the industrial chaos brought on by the paralyzing rail and coal strikes appeared almost as far distant as ever.

For all practical purposes, the railroads with their 250,000 miles of tracks would merged into one gigantic system today with interchageable equipment and operating under orders to move food and fuel above all else. The I. C. C., with its broad powers derived from the transportation act became overnight a miniature railroad administration empowered to suspend all rules and regulations and to enforce its fuel and food carrying orders under heavy penalties.

The national emergency declared by the commission and the priority ratings accorded shipments of fuel and food on all railroads, will, government officials believe, reduce public suffering and inconvenience to the miumum while at the same time affording the government a breathing spell to figure on new methods of settling the strike.

That the action through the I. C. C. is only a poultice applied to the aggravated situation and not a cure, was generally recognized by administration officials. The cure can only come through a ressumption of mining a large scale in mines now idle for four months and through expert labor being attracted into the repair shops of the railroads to work on rapidly deteriorating equipment. There were few indications today that the government contemplates any immediate steps in the direction of restoring peace in either the rail or coal strikes.

For the time being, it appeared, the administration is going to devote its major efforts to insuring the movement of life's necessares, food and fuel, to prevention of profiteering and to spreading out the available coal supply over as thin a surface as is possible. At the same time encouragement will be given to any measures designed to speed up production of both union and non-union mines.

The experiment of trying to mine coal with volunteer workers under troop protection will be given a thorough trial before any additional action is taken in the coal situation, it was said at the White House.

"The government's chief concern at this time," said authorized spokesman for the government, "is to create a condition in which men may work if they choose to work, with the guaranty that the government will protect them. If it is shown no men want to work under those conditions, then other steps will have to be taken."

While the government marked time in the coal strike, officials were hopeful that John L. Lewis' renewed invitation to the operators to discuss a national agreement might lead to something. It is known that many of the operators frankly favor a national agreement but the "die hards" element among the operators controls enough tonnage to have blocked, so far the chances of a joint conference. Whether there has been a change of sentiment of these die hards probably will be disclosed next week.

In the rail strike, President Harding still considers that the burden of responsibility rests with the railroad labor board, the creature set up by congress to deal with such situations, it was reiterated at the White House today.

While the nation went on war time rationing today, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, charged anew that "a small group of Wall street railway executives" are responsible for the continuation of the rail strike.

"Most railroad executives," said Gompers, "are anxious to settle the rail strike by negotiations with the workers. Western and mid Western roads however are virtually helpless before a small group of eastern executivest who are Wall Stree trustees.

"The roads are getting in a serious condition. Rolling stock is rapidly becoming useless. Trains are running behind schedule. Annuled trains are not being put back. The strike is effective and will be effective until the roads deal with their workers.

Washington, July 26.—Destruction of union labor, deliberately planned by capital upon termination of world war was declared by Senator W. E. Borah chairman of the senate labor committee today to be the fundamental underlying cause of the existing coal and railroad situation.

Senator Borah recalled that he had charged when he fought the last army appropriations bill that the "real danger of a big military establishment was that capital hoped and expected to employ it against union labor.

"Recent developments certainly seem to justify the view I took of a large army then, and which I still hold now," Borah declared. "One reason certain big interests supported and encouraged the presidential aspirations of General Leonard Wood in 1920 was that they were confident if he were elected to the White House he would place a battalion of soldiers at the doorway of union labor wherever and whenever those interests deemed the use of armed forces necessary to crush union labor."

Borah said he was "deeply concerned about the incalculable hardships" the continued deadlock was bound to impose upon the great masses of the people.

"In its determination to crush union labor, capital started out, as soon as the world war was finished, to deflate wages, to slash them irrespective of whether they were reduced below the level of the living wage' or not," Borah continued. "And yet no deflation of wages can be justified as long as living conditions remain as they are, and living condition are certain to continue as they are unless there is a reduction in living costs all along the line and there can be no reduction in living costs unless there is a corresponding reduction in present extravagant expenditures and taxation. The evil of the industrial situation confronting us is an economic one and its only solution is economically from the top down and the bottom up."

Borah said he believed "nationalization control of the coal industry was inevitable and that this belief led him to introduce his bill for the creation of a commission to delve into the coal situation for the last ten years.

"The production of coal is just as vital to the welfare of the people as is transportation and it is imperative that there should be government regulation of the coal industry," Borah said.

He hoped to have his committee act promptly on his bill and report it favorably to the senate so it might be passed at this session of congress.

"I am of the opinion that the present strike could have been averted if the government had stepped in at the outset and compelled the operators to live up to their contract with the miners to consider the wage question within thirty days of the expiration of the former scale".

If B. and O. Move Successful End of Walkout Is In Sight.

Detroit, Mich., July 26.—A threat that the 400,000 maintenance men employed on the nation's railroads will go on strike because of alleged action of certain eastern roads in attempting to form company organizations to take the place of international brotherhoods and the action of guards employed by the railroads was made here today at headquarters of the International Brotherhod of Maintenance of Way employes and railway shop laborers.

Chicago, July 26.—"Stand firm and tick together," appeared today to be the slogan of the striking railway shopmen as negotiations for settlement of the walkout reached a stage where each side apparently was waiting for the next move of the opposition. The faces of the union leaders, headed by B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor, were set firm against any "separate peace" with individual railroads. The strike leaders likewise were showing no indications of receding from the original platform announced when the strike began as the basis upon which labor would settle.

Much interest was being manifested here in the efforts of Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, to reach a separate agreement with employes of that road. Railroad executives awaited the outcome of the conferences at Baltimore with the belief that if the Baltimore and Ohio is able to effect a separate peace, similar action can be taken by other roads.

Union leaders openly admit that if the Baltimore and Ohio peace move is successful and other roads take a similar course it will mean failure of the strike.

Several overtures from regional leaders of the strikers to be allowed to negotiate separate agreements with the railroads have been vigorously discouraged by Jewell and his associates, it is known. It is also reported on excellent authority that several railroad executives have come to Jewell with proposals for separate peace and have been emphatically turned down.

The stand of the strike leaders is that any peace agreement must apply to all railroads of the country and evidences today were that they were "digging in" for a finish fight to achieve this end.

With the announcement from the White House at Washington that the government has no plan for settlement of the rail strike "that is not founded upon the railroad labor board to carry out the mandate given it by congress," the opinion prevailed today that the government has decided, for the present at least, to let the warring factions "fight it out." Chairman Ben W. Hooper of the labor board, reiterated, his declaration that the board "contemplates no action for the present." As evidence of its attitude the board today was proceeding with the adjustment of routine matters having no bearing upon the strike situation.

BANDIT IS KILLED AS DEPUTY OPENS FIRE AFTER HOLDUP

Akron, ., July 26.—Deputy Sheriff Frank Parric of Kent was shot through the neck and seriously wounded and an unknown bandit was shot and instantly killed in a pitched battle near Geauga Lake at 1 o'clock this morning.

Three men in an automobile approached Parris, who was walking along the road and attempted to hold him up. Parri resisted. He opened fire and the bandits ran back to their car. They then open fire on Parri, one of the bullets penetrating his neck.

While lying on the ground, Parri continued to fire, one of his shots striking the unidentified bandit in the back, killing him instantly. The body of the dead bandit was hurled from the automobile into a ditch by his companions who drove away. Police here say a second bandit was wounded. Cuyahoga and Portage county officials are seeking the escaped bandits.

PENNSYLVANIA COAL AWAITS SHIPMENT FROM STATE MINES

Thousands of Tons Expected To Be Moved Under Priority Order.

Washington, Pa., July 26.—Operators and striking miners in the coal fields of southwestern Pennsylvania anxiously awaited today effects of the first peace time declaration of a national industrial emergency.

Thousands of tons of soft coal above the ground in these fields and in cars which have idled on tracks for months are expected to be moved immediately under priority shipments rights granted by the government. No trouble is anticipated should movements be put under way. Quiet prevails throughout this entire district.

Operators are making preparations for the reopening of Montour mine No. 4, at Hills Station, near Morganza and the Hendersonville mines. A continued influx of strikebreakers is reported and some are at work on the dumps at the Montour mine, putting it in shape for working.

MERGER OF MINES IS NOW ANNOUNCED

Cincinnati ,July 26.—Seven mines with a total acreage of 38,000, a small line of railwayand a patential production of a million tons annually were taken into a commercial coal company organized through a merger completed Tuesday by Northern Kentucky capitalists meeting in this sity. The capitalization has been fixed at $2,500,000. The new corporation has been named the Log Mountain Consolidated Coal Company and the most of its holdings lie in Bell county, Ky., with a small acreage in the adjoining Tennessee county. The merger was brought about largely through the efforts of John Hoffman, president of the Hignite Coal Company and vice president of the Kentucky Fuel Company, who has had the idea in mind since 1915.

Properties taken in by the consolidation include the Hignite Coal Mining Company, the Yellow Creek Coal Company, the Mingo Coal and Coke Company, the Bennett's Fork Coal Mining Company, and the Log Mountain Coal Company. In addition to Mr. Hoffman and capitalists of Cincinnati, Covington and Newport.

THOMAS IS NAMED THEATRICAL CHIEF

New York July 26.—Augustus Thomas, playwright has been chosen executive chairman by the Producing Managers' Association to direct the mutual intersts of all elements of the theatrical producing industry, to amelioriate the difficulties existing between these elements and to serve the theater in a capacity similiar to that held by Will Hays in the motion picture industry and by Commissioner Landis in the field of organized baseball.

The decision to delegate wide powers in the producing field to one man, President Sam H. Harris of the Producing Managers' Association said. was made two months ago and its aclomplishment necessitated an amendment in the constitution and by-laws of the organization.

Mr. Thomas was chosen to serve for three years and his salary was reported to be large.

ROADS MERGED INTO ONE BIG ORGANIZATION

Will Operate Under Orders To Move Food and Fuel Above All Else.

I. C. C. IN CONTROL

Move Is Only Poultice But It Will Give Government Time.

Washington, July 26—The nation went back to war time regulation of the railroads today while peace in the industrial chaos brought on by the paralyzing rail and coal strikes appeared almost as far distant as ever.

For all practical purposes, the railroads with their 250,000 miles of tracks would merged into one gigantic system today with interchageable equipment and operating under orders to move food and fuel above all else. The I. C. C., with its broad powers derived from the transportation act became overnight a miniature railroad administration empowered to suspend all rules and regulations and to enforce its fuel and food carrying orders under heavy penalties.

The national emergency declared by the commission and the priority ratings accorded shipments of fuel and food on all railroads, will, government officials believe, reduce public suffering and inconvenience to the miumum while at the same time affording the government a breathing spell to figure on new methods of settling the strikes.

That the action through the I. C. C. is only a poultrice applied to the aggravated situation and not a cure, was generally recognized by administration officials. The cure can only come through a ressumption of mining a large scale in mines now idle for four months and through expert labor being attracted into the repair shops of the railroads to work on rapidly deteriorating equipment. There were few indications today that the government contemplates any immediate steps in the direction of restoring peace in either the rail or coal strikes.

For the time being, it appeared, the administration is going to devote its major efforts to insuring the movement of life's necessares, food and fuel, to prevention of profiteering and to spreading out the available coal supply over as thin a surface as is possible. At the same time encouragement will be given to any measures designed to speed up production of both union and non-union mines.

The experiment of trying to mine coal with volunteer workers under troop protection will be given a thorough trial before any additional action is taken in the coal situation, it was said at the White House.

"The government's chief concern at this time," said authorized spokesman for the government, "is to create a condition in which men may work if they choose to work, with the guaranty that the government will protect them. If it is shown no men want to work under those conditions, then other steps will have to be taken."

While the government marked time in the coal strike, officials were hopeful that John L. Lewis' renewed invitation to the operators to discuss a national agreement might lead to something. It is known that many of the operators frankly favor a national agreement but the "die hards' element among the operators controls enough tonnage to have blocked, so far the chances of a joint conference. Whether there has been a change of sentiment of these die hards probably will be disclosed next week.

In the rail strike, President Harding still considers that the burden of responsibility rests with the railroad labor board, the creature set up by congress to deal with such situations, it was reiterated at the White House today.

While the nation went on war time rationing today, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, charged anew that "a small group of Wall street railway executives" are responsible for the continuation of the rail strike.

"Most railroad executives," said Gompers, "are anxious to settle the rail strike by negotiations with the workers. Western and mid Western roads however are virtually helpless before a small group of eastern executivest who are Wall Stree trustees.

"The roads are getting in a serious condition. Rolling stock is rapidly becoming useless. Trains are running behind schedule. Annuled trains are not being put back. The strike is effective and will be effective until the roads deal with their workers.

Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick.

Twenty million school schildren are stunted, physically and mentally, because of improper nutrition. These children come from families of the poor, the rich and those of the moderate means.

This was one of the big thoughts brought out in the home economics department of the General federation at the biennial with a view to making mothers stop and think and to make them determined to educate themselves to the facts of the things in the home and to cause them to care more for their homes and children in a scientific way, for it is this that insures health and happiness in a superlative degree. Federated club women everywhere are demanding of all women: "What are you doing to bring health and strength to the members of your family, and peace and happiness to your home?"

Educational films on home economics subjects produced under the supervision and direction of the Mass., State Federation of Women's Clubs are available for club programs for very little expense in all states. Any club woman writing Mrs. C. W. Bixby, No. 11 Blackwood Street, Boston, will be mailed subjects and details.

Mrs. Cornelius S. Selover, of Cleveland,, the Ohio federation president, announces that it is highly important that the federation directory material be in the hands of Mrs. James N. Fleming, corresponding secretary, No. 9722 Logan court, Cleveland, by August 1 or the directory maker will be obliged to use the names of the old officers, clubs not sending in new officers being indicated with a star. There are many clubs yet delinquent in this matter.

The Canton Sorosis club of 200 members, an open club for self-culture and civic and public welfare work, conducted a lecture course by Edward Howard Griggs that netted $400 to be used as a basis for a loan-scholarship fund known as the "Canton Loan Scholarship Fund." It also aroused interest in the playground situation. The club has a budget in the community chest fund. This fund recently raised in Canton amounts to $350,00. From this budget six playgrounds are being conducted in Canton. Mrs. Ray J. Bour is the president of the Canton Sorosis club.

An interesting meeting of the federation at Ashland recently Mrs. Allen Miller, the president, voiced a plea that more women become deeply concerned in the work of their clubs. "If the federation is to do good work more women must take part in its activities," she said.

Following a report of the biennial meet by Mrs. Miller, the report of the health nurse, Miss Hayden, supported by the Ashland federation federation, was submitted. It showed that for March, April and May the sum of $112 was received from patients. The federation pledged $50 to the national federation headquarters in Washington. Mrs. Rex White reported that the federation had been asked to sponsor a playground association, the federation indorsing the proposition.

It will be of more than passing interest to know that Ohio was second in number of the biennial meet with an attendance of ninety-four delegates. Illinois was first with 108 delegates.

"HENRY AND ME" ARE AGAIN UNITED

Emporia, Kas., July 26.—'Henry and Me," were reunited today before the eyes of the public, and from a spaker's platform, Henry, Governor Henry J. Allen, told of his difference with his pal of war and peace times, William Allen White, Emporia editor and author.

The difference was on one thing only and it did not go beyond that, said "Henry", referring to his friend affectionately as "Bill." That difference was on the interpretation of the industrial court act in the phase of whether a card of sympathy can be construed as violating the picketing clause.

"Bill" introduced "Henry" before an audience in the state normal school auditorium for the Governors day celebration and "Henry" responded that "Bill" would not hurt a flea.

"The only time Bill is dangerous said the governor, "is when he sits down to a double action typewriter at a time like this and writes out his emotion.

"Bill or anyone else has the right to put up a card in his window if he wants to. But when Bill put up that sympathy card he was joining in the movement to break down the efforts of the railroads to keep the tarins running. He became the most dangerous figure in that movement because of the faith so many have in his judgment. And so we had to single Bill out, because he is a leader. His arrest is a great compliment to him."

Turning from his facetious vein, Governor Allen said it must be understood that the action taken against Mr. White was for the purpose of enforcing the law, not to deprive anybody of constitutional rights.

"What we need in this country now more than anything else," added the governor, "is a feeling of obligation to our government, to our laws and obedience to authority. It is the duty of every citizen to obey the laws. It is the ruling of the chief law officer of this state that the posting of the signs constituted a violation of the law, in that they tended to intimidate those who wanted to work."

This was one of the big thoughts brought out in the home economics department of the General federation at the biennial with a view to making mothers stop and think and to make them determined to educate themselves to the facts of the things in the home and to cause them to care more for their homes and children in a scientific way, for it is this that insures health and happiness in a superlative degree. Federated club women everywhere are demanding of all women: "What are you doing to bring health and strength to the members of your family, and peace and happiness to your home?"

Educational films on home economics subjects produced under the supervision and direction of the Mass., State Federation of Women's Clubs are available for club programs for very little expense in all states. Any club woman writing Mrs. C. W. Bixby, No. 11 Blackwood Street, Boston, will be mailed subjects and details.

Mrs. Cornelius S. Selover, of Cleveland,, the Ohio federation president, announces that it is highly important that the federation directory material be in the hands of Mrs. James N. Fleming, corresponding secretary, No. 9722 Logan court, Cleveland, by August 1 or the directory maker will be obliged to use the names of the old officers, clubs not sending in new officers being indicated with a star. There are many clubs yet delinquent in this matter.

The Canton Sorosis club of 200 members, an open club for self-culture and civic and public welfare work, conducted a lecture course by Edward Howard Griggs that netted $400 to be used as a basis for a loan-scholarship fund known as the "Canton Loan Scholarship Fund." It also aroused interest in the playground situation. The club has a budget in the community chest fund. This fund recently raised in Canton amounts to $350,00. From this budget six playgrounds are being conducted in Canton. Mrs. Ray J. Bour is the president of the Canton Sorosis club.

An interesting meeting of the federation at Ashland recently Mrs. Allen Miller, the president, voiced a plea that more women become deeply concerned in the work of their clubs. "If the federation is to do good work more women must take part in its activities," she said.

Following a report of the biennial meet by Mrs. Miller, the report of the health nurse, Miss Hayden, supported by the Ashland federation federation, was submitted. It showed that for March, April and May the sum of $112 was received from patients. The federation pledged $50 to the national federation headquarters in Washington. Mrs. Rex White reported that the federation had been asked to sponsor a playground association, the federation indorsing the proposition.

It will be of more than passing interest to know that Ohio was second in number of the biennial meet with an attendance of ninety-four delegates. Illinois was first with 108 delegates.

"HENRY AND ME" ARE AGAIN UNITED

Emporia, Kas., July 26.—'Henry and Me," were reunited today before the eyes of the public, and from a spaker's platform, Henry, Governor Henry J. Allen, told of his difference with his pal of war and peace times, William Allen White, Emporia editor and author.

The difference was on one thing only and it did not go beyond that, said "Henry", referring to his friend affectionately as "Bill." That difference was on the interpretation of the industrial court act in the phase of whether a card of sympathy can be construed as violating the picketing clause.

"Bill" introduced "Henry" before an audience in the state normal school auditorium for the Governors day celebration and "Henry" responded that "Bill" would not hurt a flea.

"The only time Bill is dangerous said the governor, "is when he sits down to a double action typewriter at a time like this and writes out his emotion.

"Bill or anyone else has the right to put up a card in his window if he wants to. But when Bill put up that sympathy card he was joining in the movement to break down the efforts of the railroads to keep the tarins running. He became the most dangerous figure in that movement because of the faith so many have in his judgment. And so we had to single Bill out, because he is a leader. His arrest is a great compliment to him."

Turning from his facetious vein, Governor Allen said it must be understood that the action taken against Mr. White was for the purpose of enforcing the law, not to deprive anybody of constitutional rights.

"What we need in this country now more than anything else," added the governor, "is a feeling of obligation to our government, to our laws and obedience to authority. It is the duty of every citizen to obey the laws. It is the ruling of the chief law officer of this state that the posting of the signs constituted a violation of the law, in that they tended to intimidate those who wanted to work."

Alvin Brown, ticket agent, was alone in the office at the time of the robbery. He reported two men appeared at an open window, drew revolvers and ordered him to keep quiet. A third bandit entered the office and forced Brown to open the safe.

The three men escaped in a large touring car. Chief Lynch this afternoon talked to two witnesses who reported they saw the automobile containing the three men leave the station, but were not aware what had taken place.

ATTACK STAGED BY WOMEN AGAINST NON-UNION SHOPMEN IN TOLEDO

Toledo, July 26.—Railroad detectives, city police and dozens of autos carrying non union shopmen to work in the Air Line junction yards of the New York Central railroad here were attacked by 50 women from ambush near the Fearing subway today.

The women, wives of strikers and sympathizers with them, it is said, had carefully prepared for the attack. Great piles of stones and bricks had been gathered. As the first car of workers appeared from the subway shadows, hundreds of stones crashed in the windshields and injured occupants. Railroad detectives proved powerless to stop the attack and police were called.

Responding to a riot call, one patrol wagon was attacked by the brick throwing women and six police were forced to retire. Three more patrols laden with police were called and not until the officers displayed guns did the women abandon their supply of stone ammunition and flee.

No arrests had been made at noon today but a police patrol of the district was ordered by city officials.

Several non union workers were painfully cut by the attack.

DAVIS SAYS HOOVER DECLARATION NOT CONSISTENT NOW

Columbus, July 26.—"Inconsistent with the position taken by President Harding on the coal situation," is the comment made today by Governor Davis relative to the declaration, attributed to Secretary of Commerce Hoover, that he 'looks to Gov. Davis to furnish troops at mines to safeguard Ohio's coal needs."

"Our policy has been that troops are to be stationed directly at mines only in case there is flagrant threat of the state of law and order, and our position in this respect is in thorough accord with President Harding's ideas, I have been directly assurred," Gov. Davis asserted.

The governor called attention to the fact that, preceding and after the appeal of the president to coal operators to resume activities, Ohio troops were mobilized to give whatever protection would be demanded by circumstances.

He asserted further that since the president's procalamation to the country dealing with the coal situation, state troops have been sent into the coal mining regions in order that they might be close to the scene in the event that military action became necessary.

"The state has taken every precaution to cope with the situation," Governor Davis said. "Since there has been an accord of policy with the highest federal athorities, secretary Hoover's quoted statement is, to say the least, incomprehensible.

"We now have troops stationed at Cadiz and Lancaster, points centrally located in two of the most important mining districts in the state. In addition to this, soldiers are mobilized, ready to move at a number of other localities. Probably, unfamiliarity with all the facts on the part of Secretary Hoover may account for his statement," the governor said.

"Coal is being mined in Ohio by the stripping process in various localities. Reports from these localities are that no disturbances of any kind exist.

"Ohio has endeavored to co-operate with the federal authorities, in every way, to carry out their plans for meeting the coal emergency, and all action taken has been with that end in view," Governor Davis declared.

LEWIS' STATEMENTS BRANDED DEFIANT

"I feel they call for prompt and positive action on the part of the federal authorities," the telegram read. "Indiana stands behind you in whatever course you may elect to take to settle the strike or bring about resumption of coal production.

NO TRACE FOUND OF THREE BANDITS

Greenville, July 26—No trace has been found of three automobile bandits who entered the ticket office of the Pennsylvania Railroad company shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday and escaped after looting the safe of $62.41 in cash, according to Chief of Police Lynch.

Alvin Brown, ticket agent, was alone in the office at the time of the robbery. He reported two men appeared at an open window, drew revolvers and ordered him to keep quiet. A third bandit entered the office and forced Brown to open the safe.

The three men escaped in a large touring car. Chief Lynch this afternoon talked to two witnesses who reported they saw the automobile containing the three men leave the station, but were not aware what had taken place.

After the robbery the bandits tied Brown's hands behind his back, turned out the lights in the building and fled.

Dr Shaffer has been here twice before and has obtained valuable data in connection with the typhoid fever epidemic. He went to worfl immediately Wednesday morning with Dr. R. H. Grube, City Health Commissioner.

Dr. Minnich, a deputy state food inspector, also arrived in Xenia late Wednesday forenoon, and began the task of investigating conditions under which all foodstuffs are handled. Dr. Minnich will make a report to Health Commissioner Grube and also to the state regarding his findings.

ATTACK STAGED BY WOMEN AGAINST NON-UNION SHOPMEN IN TOLEDO

Toledo, July 26.—Railroad detectives, city police and dozens of autos carrying non union shopmen to work in the Air Line junction yards of the New York Central railroad here were attacked by 50 women from ambush near the Fearing subway today.

The women, wives of strikers and sympathizers with them, it is said, had carefully prepared for the attack. Great piles of stones and bricks had been gathered. As the first car of workers appeared from the subway shadows, hundreds of stones crashed in the windshields and injured occupants. Railroad detectives proved powerless to stop the attack and police were called.

Responding to a riot call, one patrol wagon was attacked by the brick throwing women and six police were forced to retire. Three more patrols laden with police were called and not until the officers displayed guns did the women abandon their supply of stone ammunition and flee.

No arrests had been made at noon today but a police patrol of the district was ordered by city officials.

Several non union workers were painfully cut by the attack.

DAVIS SAYS HOOVER DECLARATION NOT CONSISTENT NOW

Columbus, July 26.—"Inconsistent with the position taken by President Harding on the coal situation," is the comment made today by Governor Davis relative to the declaration, attributed to Secretary of Commerce Hoover, that he 'looks to Gov. Davis to furnish troops at mines to safeguard Ohio's coal needs."

"Our policy has been that troops are to be stationed directly at mines only in case there is flagrant threat of the state of law and order, and our position in this respect is in thorough accord with President Harding's ideas, I have been directly assurred," Gov. Davis asserted.

The governor called attention to the fact that, preceding and after the appeal of the president to coal operators to resume activities, Ohio troops were mobilized to give whatever protection would be demanded by circumstances.

He asserted further that since the president's procalamation to the country dealing with the coal situation, state troops have been sent into the coal mining regions in order that they might be close to the scene in the event that military action became necessary.

"The state has taken every precaution to cope with the situation," Governor Davis said. "Since there has been an accord of policy with the highest federal athorities, secretary Hoover's quoted statement is, to say the least, incomprehensible.

"We now have troops stationed at Cadiz and Lancaster, points centrally located in two of the most important mining districts in the state. In addition to this, soldiers are mobilized, ready to move at a number of other localities. Probably, unfamiliarity with all the facts on the part of Secretary Hoover may account for his statement," the governor said.

"Coal is being mined in Ohio by the stripping process in various localities. Reports from these localities are that no disturbances of any kind exist.

"Ohio has endeavored to co-operate with the federal authorities, in every way, to carry out their plans for meeting the coal emergency, and all action taken has been with that end in view," Governor Davis declared.

LEWIS' STATEMENTS BRANDED DEFIANT

Indianapolis, Ind., July 26.—Statements of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America that the government's schemes for reopening coal mines of the country have proved failures were branded as defiant and disloyal" by ov. Warren T. McCray today in a telegram sent to President Harding.

"I feel they call for prompt and positive action on the part of the federal authorities," the telegram read. "Indiana stands behind you in whatever course you may elect to take to settle the strike or bring about resumption of coal production.

PRINCE OF MONACO DENIED PEARY'S DISCOVERY OF POLE.

Since the death of Prince Albert of Monaco a few days ago close friends of the eminent scientist and geographer have declared the Prince died convinced that the most interesting exploration feat had not yet been accomplished—namely, the discovery of the North Pole.

It has developed from these sources that ever since Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary's death, in the secrecy of scientific meetings and geographical societies, Prince Albert, who was an extremely blunt man and who prided himself upon being an "honest sailor," always maintained that Peary never reached the Pole, basing his opinion as that of a geographer and claiming that Peary's reports bore every evidence of being "reasoned out and not made on the spot."

The Prince, it is said, declared that the scientific data reported by Peary as of the Pole itself was fiction and based on real observations made eighty miles away and very plausibly reasoned from those observations. He said also to have declared that the entire scientific and geographic world knew the secret, but out of respect for the personality of Peary and in regard for American feelings their beliefs were never made public.

The Prince, in fact, did not even blame Peary for what he termed his "exaggeration of longitude and latitude," because he had indeed got to a point nearer the Pole than any one else had the endurance to reach. The reasons given by the Prince for Peary's "deception" were the fact that he had information from Esquimaux runners that Frederick Cook was on the point of cabling the world he had found the Pole and that Peary knew if Cook's fraud were taken seriously and he (Peary) again returned unsuccessful after so many years in the Arctic that he would never again be able to make an attempt. He was at the limit of his physical resources and he made a final effort and arrived within eighty miles of his goal, according to the Prince.

In a heated argument shortly before his death the Prince cited details of Peary's being accompanied only by a Negro, who, the Prince said, could neither read nor write, and so could not corroborate or deny the scientific data Peary gave the world. The Prince always maintained that Amundsen did reach the South Pole, but that he believed no man would ever reach the North Pole afoot or afloat.

BILLIONS FOR DISABLED VETERANS.

Senator Borah announces that the government is paying $1,000,000 a day for the care of disabled veterans. That makes $365,000,000 a year, which is a pretty respectable sum. Continued for 20 years, without reckoning interest, it would amount to more than $7,000,000,000. And it is reasonable to expect that the money required for this purpose will increase right along for many years.

Looking at the question from a slightly different angle, Senator Borah estimates that if the disabled veterans of the World War are given care or compensation at the same rate as the Civil War veterans have been, it will cost the United States government over $65,000,000,000 in the next 20 years.

And payments will not stop, by any means, at the end of that period. The biggest pension bill in American history was paid last year, more than 50 years after the Civil War ended.

NATIONAL LAUGH DAY.

This year's prize for press-agent work, self-managed and self-staged, goes to Governor Morrison, of North Carolina. Thursday morning's papers from Maine to California had Morrison and North Carolina featured in blazing headlines. He and It constituted the news of the day. In answer to President Harding's message to the Governors of the different States asking if they would help him in ending the strike, Governor Morrison not only returned a noble no, but gave a column or so of statesmanlike dicta and reasons on the subject.

The result was such headlines as "Governor Refuses to Help President Open Coal Mines." For a brief day North Carolina and its Governor swept the headlines of the entire United States like a besom. Then came the news that North Carolina had exactly one coal mine. It employs sixty miners. They are all non-union. None of them has gone on strike. They produce less than fifty tons a day.

Perhaps Morrison had a sense of humor after all. He told the President, "I am quite sure I will not need Federal forces to aid me in the position I have taken." No, he won't. He won't even need a single cop. Yet the tragic solemnity with which he expounded to the President his theories of the strike question forbid the though that Morrison may have had a smile up his sleeve. The joke is on the United States, which for a day took him seriously. The joke is also on the Governors of the coal-mining States, who were little noted in the excitement over Morrison and his defiance of the Government. The freak of a day is ended and the replies of the real Governors, with the prompt action so many of them have taken, will now emerge from behind Morrison into the limelight they deserve.

DO YOU KNOW?

Over 85,000 freight cars and 600 locomotives have been ordered so far this year in the United States. Only 28,358 cars and 820 locomotives were ordered in all of 1921, 581 locomotives being for shipment abroad.

More than 1000 self-supporting business women in New York city have formed an association to raise funds to build a clubhouse for business women, which will be run exactly like the modern clubhouses for business men.

The most powerful locomotive in the world, operating out of Detroit, Mich., recently hauled 100 loaded coal cars, a train a mile in length. Every modern appliance known to motive power experts has been installed on this super-locomotive.

The issuing of a $35,000,000 life insurance policy, insuring the lives of the 7000 firemen and policemen of Chicago, at the rate of $5000 each, has been recommended by a committee of Aldermen of that city. This policy will be the largest of its kind ever written in the United States.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

In somewhat the same way the catastrophies make us all akin in feeling, sympathy and a desire to help one another, so does disappointment come to us individually to sooth and sober us for the more serious tasks of life.

I often think of the smile within—let me so express it—that covers so much in the nearts of so many brave people.

Disappointment needs these smiles within if anything does.

To see one's dreams blotted out or one's ideals shattered is disappointment indeed—but what city once wiped out by fire or disaster did not rise to be greater and better.

There is always a higher ground for us all.

I believe that we all of us arrive at stations in our personal experience when it seems as though we had come to the end of our road.. We are immediately arrested. We have travelled far. We are tired from the heat and effort of the day. We feel much of our work was in vain.

What shall we do—turn back?

Oh, no. Let us make a new road and keep right on. Soon or later we will again meet older roads, familiar and much trodden, that will ease our tired joints and lighten our heart and prove to our own satisfaction that it never pays to despair, or to let disappointment rule the way.

There is one true thing about disappointment. It can be conquered! Also you can forget it—for brooding over disppointment is like fanning a flame. You can BUILD upon disappointment, too.

How to Save Children from Skin Irritations and Soreness

West Carthage, N. Habitually used after a child's bath, it heals and prevents soreness and rashes."—Mabel E. Miller, R. N., W. Carthage, N. Y.

The reason Sykes Comfort Powder is so successful in such cases is because it contains six healing, antiseptic ingredients not found in ordinary talcums. For twenty years it has been used and endorsed by physicians and mothers, and nurses call it "A Healing Wonder."

NO REST---NO PEACE

There's no peace and little rest for the one who suffers from a bad back, and distressing urinary disorders. Xenia people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Be guided by their experience.

Mrs. David Pohl, 751 W. Second St., Xenia, gave the following statement Aug. 2, 1917: "I suffered with lame back, but the most annoying symptoms was the irregular action of my kidneys. I felt languid when I arose in the morning and it seemed I never could get any rest. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Donges' Drug Store, and they helped me immediately and the second box cured me entirely."

On Aug. 15, 1921, Mrs. Pohl said: "I am glad to again say that Doan's Kidney Pills are the one reliable kidney remedy that cured me of kidney trouble some years ago. I have had no further occasion to use Doan's but I am glad to confirm the statement I gave in 1917 in behalf of this remedy."

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

Far back in inter-glacial days, when life had few if any charms, our rude forefathers went their ways, the clubs they bore their only arms. These clubs were shapeless limbs of trees, picked from the ground in forests dense; there were no guns or snickersnees or other weapons of offense. And when a man went forth to slay an ox or bear for his repast, he had to pound away all day, before the critter breathed its last. It took long hours to kill a pig, and twice the time to kill a cow; the waste of effort was so big it gives me fantods, even now. But lo, a great idea strikes the leader of a savage clan, and in his club he places spikes, this scientist this super-man. He goes a-hunting with a smile, and with one blow, of proper zest, he slays the roaring crocodile, or knocks the warthog galley west. And doubtless many foolish dubs knocked his invention as a shame, and plied their shapeless, spikeless clubs, because their father did the same. The world has always had its host of men who hate the word "improve," who make an idiotic boast of trotting in the same old groove.

Letters To The Editor

Editor Gazette and Republican:

Miss Reva M. Haines, a teacher in the public schools of Youngstown Ohio, and a daughter of Mrs. Alice S. Haines of New Hope, is visiting her brother T. M. Haines, of Boston, Mass., while pursuing a summer course at Boston University. In the meantime she is seeing the historical and literary places of New England. In a letter to her mother she describes some of her experiences as follows:

"Well, at last I a min Boston, The Hub of the Universe,' as some New England writer has called it. I have already sampled Boston Baked Beans. People here say that you do not know beans until you come to Boston. And this is Boston—the famous city of learning—the "Athens" of America. When I ask why its streets are so narrow and winding, I am told that they were originally calf paths followed faithfully in good old Boston fashion, until they have become the streets of a metropolis. In fact the streets are so winding and run in so many different directions that a stranger without a guide or may not only finds it hard to reach a desinaion but very often find themselves ending up in an entirely different part of the city. I find that it is almost useless to ask the people you meet on the streets how to reach any particular place, for it seems that Bostonians have a habit of telling you something rather than to admit that they do not know.

"In the older part of the city the original streets are preserved as nearly as possible. A few of the very old houses, such as Paul Revere's home once surrounded by spacious fields, are still standing, but now jammed in closely between high business blocks.

The Bostonian pronunciation certainly is unique. I fact sometimes I can hardly understand what they say. For instance,— Shortly after arriving we went to the hotel for dinner. We asked the waiter, 'What kind of sea-food was being served with the dinner.' He replied 'Rawerosters.' I asked, 'What did you say?' He said, 'RAWEROSTERS.' 'All right,' we said. And this is what he brought—Raw oysters."

Since the death of Prince Albert of Monaco a few days ago close friends of the eminent scientist and geographer have declared the Prince died convinced that the most interesting exploration feat had not yet been accomplished—namely, the discovery of the North Pole.

It has developed from these sources that ever since Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary's death, in the secrecy of scientific meetings and geographical societies, Prince Albert, who was an extremely blunt man and who prided himself upon being an "honest sailor," always maintained that Peary never reached the Pole, basing his opinion as that of a geographer and claiming that Peary's reports bore every evidence of being "reasoned out and not made on the spot."

The Prince, it is said, declared that the scientific data reported by Peary as of the Pole itself was fiction and based on real observations made eighty miles away and very plausibly reasoned from those observations. He said also to have declared that the entire scientific and geographic world knew the secret, but out of respect for the personality of Peary and in regard for American feelings their beliefs were never made public.

The Prince, in fact, did not even blame Peary for what he termed his "exaggeration of longitude and latitude," because he had indeed got to a point nearer the Pole than any one else had the endurance to reach. The reasons given by the Prince for Peary's "deception" were the fact that he had information from Esquimaux runners that Frederick Cook was on the point of cabling the world he had found the Pole and that Peary knew if Cook's fraud were taken seriously and he (Peary) again returned unsuccessful after so many years in the Arctic that he would never again be able to make an attempt. He was at the limit of his physical resources and he made a final effort and arrived within eighty miles of his goal, according to the Prince.

In a heated argument shortly before his death the Prince cited details of Peary's being accompanied only by a Negro, who, the Prince said, could neither read nor write, and so could not corroborate or deny the scientific data Peary gave the world. The Prince always maintained that Amundsen did reach the South Pole, but that he believed no man would ever reach the North Pole afoot or afloat.

BILLIONS FOR DISABLED VETERANS.

Senator Borah announces that the government is paying $1,000,000 a day for the care of disabled veterans. That makes $365,000,000 a year, which is a pretty respectable sum. Continued for 20 years, without reckoning interest, it would amount to more than $7,000,000,000. And it is reasonable to expect that the money required for this purpose will increase right along for many years.

Looking at the question from a slightly different angle, Senator Borah estimates that if the disabled veterans of the World War are given care or compensation at the same rate as the Civil War veterans have been, it will cost the United States government over $65,000,000,000 in the next 20 years.

And payments will not stop, by any means, at the end of that period. The biggest pension bill in American history was paid last year, more than 50 years after the Civil War ended.

NATIONAL LAUGH DAY.

This year's prize for press-agent work, self-managed and self-staged, goes to Governor Morrison, of North Carolina. Thursday morning's papers from Maine to California had Morrison and North Carolina featured in blazing headlines. He and It constituted the news of the day. In answer to President Harding's message to the Governors of the different States asking if they would help him in ending the strike, Governor Morrison not only returned a noble no, but gave a column or so of statesmanlike dicta and reasons on the subject.

The result was such headlines as "Governor Refuses to Help President Open Coal Mines." For a brief day North Carolina and its Governor swept the headlines of the entire United States like a besom. Then came the news that North Carolina had exactly one coal mine. It employs sixty miners. They are all non-union. None of them has gone on strike. They produce less than fifty tons a day.

Perhaps Morrison had a sense of humor after all. He told the President, "I am quite sure I will not need Federal forces to aid me in the position I have taken." No, he won't. He won't even need a single cop. Yet the tragic solemnity with which he expounded to the President his theories of the strike question forbid the though that Morrison may have had a smile up his sleeve. The joke is on the United States, which for a day took him seriously. The joke is also on the Governors of the coal-mining States, who were little noted in the excitement over Morrison and his defiance of the Government. The freak of a day is ended and the replies of the real Governors, with the prompt action so many of them have taken, will now emerge from behind Morrison into the limelight they deserve.

Over 85,000 freight cars and 600 locomotives have been ordered so far this year in the United States. Only 28,358 cars and 820 locomotives were ordered in all of 1921, 581 locomotives being for shipment abroad.

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

In somewhat the same way the catastrophies make us all akin in feeling, sympathy and a desire to help one another, so does disappointment come to us individually to sooth and sober us for the more serious tasks of life.

I often think of the smile within—let me so express it—that covers so much in the hearts of so many brave people.

Disappointment needs these smiles within if anything does.

To see one's dreams blotted out or one's ideals shattered is disappointment indeed—but what city once wiped out by fire or disaster did not rise to be greater and better.

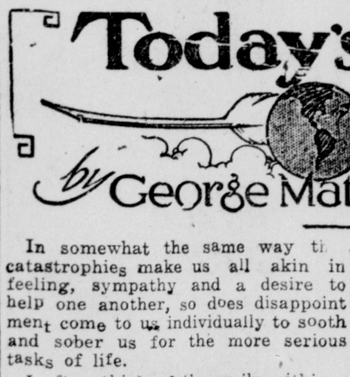

There is always a higher ground for us all.

I believe that we all of us arrive at stations in our personal experience when it seems as though we had come to the end of our road.. We are immediately arrested. We have travelled far. We are tired from the heat and effort of the day. We feel much of our work was in vain.

What shall we do—turn back?

Oh, no. Let us make a new road and keep right on. Soon or later we will again meet older roads, familiar and much trodden, that will ease our tired joints and lighten our heart and prove to our own satisfaction that it never pays to despair, or to let disappointment rule the way.

There is one true thing about disappointment. It can be conquered! Also you can forget it—for brooding over disppointment is like fanning a flame. You can BUILD upon disappointment, too.

Resinol Soap used regularly for the shampoo tends to keep the hair lustrous and the scalp free from dandruff. Where there is already a serious accumulation of dandruff, part the hair and rub Resinol Ointment well into the scalp some time before shampooing. At all druggists.

This Nurse Tells Mothers

How to Save Children from Skin Irritations and Soreness

West Carthage, N. Y.—"I am a graduate nurse, and I feel it a duty I owe to mothers whose little ones suffer from chafing, rashes, itching, scalding, or any skin irritation or soreness, to tell them that in all my experience as a nurse I have never found anything equal to Sykes Comfort Powder to heal and soothe the skin. Habitually used after a child's bath, it heals and prevents soreness and rashes."—Mabel E. Miller, R. N., W. Carthage, N. Y.

The reason Sykes Comfort Powder is so successful in such cases is because it contains six healing, antiseptic ingredients not found in ordinary talcums. For twenty years it has been used and endorsed by physicians and mothers, and nurses call it "A Healing Wonder."

NO REST---NO PEACE

There's no peace and little rest for the one who suffers from a bad back, and distressing urinary disorders. Xenia people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Be guided by their experience.

Mrs. David Pohl, 751 W. Second St., Xenia, gave the following statement Aug. 2, 1917: "I suffered with lame back, but the most annoying symptoms was the irregular action of my kidneys. I felt languid when I arose in the morning and it seemed I never could get any rest. I used Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got at Donges' Drug Store, and they helped me immediately and the second box cured me entirely."

On Aug. 15, 1921, Mrs. Pohl said: "I am glad to again say that Doan's Kidney Pills are the one reliable kidney remedy that cured me of kidney trouble some years ago. I have had no further occasion to use Doan's but I am glad to confirm the statement I gave in 1917 in behalf of this remedy."

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS.

Far back in inter-glacial days, when life had few if any charms, our rude forefathers went their ways, the clubs they bore their only arms. These clubs were shapeless limbs of trees, picked from the ground in forests dense; there were no guns or snickersnees or other weapons of offense. And when a man went forth to slay an ox or bear for his repast, he had to pound away all day, before the critter breathed its last. It took long hours to kill a pig, and twice the time to kill a cow; the waste of effort was so big it gives me fantods, even now. But lo, a great idea strikes the leader of a savage clan, and in his club he places spikes, this scientist this super-man. He goes a-hunting with a smile, and with one blow, of proper zest, he slays the roaring crocodile, or knocks the warthog galley west. And doubtless many foolish dubs knocked his invention as a shame, and plied their shapeless, spikeless clubs, because their father did the same. The world has always had its host of men who hate the word "improve," who make an idiotic boast of trotting in the same old groove.

Letters To The Editor

Editor Gazette and Republican:

Miss Reva M. Haines, a teacher in the public schools of Youngstown Ohio, and a daughter of Mrs. Alice S. Haines of New Hope, is visiting her brother T. M. Haines, of Boston, Mass., while pursuing a summer course at Boston University. In the meantime she is seeing the historical and literary places of New England. In a letter to her mother she describes some of her experiences as follows:

"Well, at last I a min Boston, The Hub of the Universe,' as some New England writer has called it. I have already sampled Boston Baked Beans. People here say that you do not know beans until you come to Boston. And this is Boston—the famous city of learning—the "Athens" of America. When I ask why its streets are so narrow and winding, I am told that they were originally calf paths followed faithfully in good old Boston fashion, until they have become the streets of a metropolis. In fact the streets are so winding and run in so many different directions that a stranger without a guide or may not only finds it hard to reach a desinaion but very often find themselves ending up in an entirely different part of the city. I find that it is almost useless to ask the people you meet on the streets how to reach any particular place, for it seems that Bostonians have a habit of telling you something rather than to admit that they do not know.

"In the older part of the city the original streets are preserved as nearly as possible. A few of the very old houses, such as Paul Revere's home once surrounded by spacious fields, are still standing, but now jammed in closely between high business blocks.

The Bostonian pronunciation certainly is unique. I fact sometimes I can hardly understand what they say. For instance,— Shortly after arriving we went to the hotel for dinner. We asked the waiter, 'What kind of sea-food was being served with the dinner.' He replied 'Rawerosters.' I asked, 'What did you say?' He said, 'RAWEROSTERS.' 'All right,' we said. And this is what he brought—Raw oysters."

NOTHING TO DO BUT ACT AS BARNACLE FOOD.

Major Hamilton Maxwell, in an Aeromarine Flying Boat, made this photograph while flying over the Hudson River, in the vicinity of West Point, N. Y., where this huge fleet of U. S. Shipping Board vessels is riding at anchor, idle. The barnacles are finding life worth while on the keels of these ships.

NEW YORK TRAFFIC HALTED FOR TIME AS TROUBLE OCCURS

New York, July 26.—Every subway and elevated train and every trolley car in the B. R. T.'s great network system came to a sudden stop at 5:15 yesterday afternoon causing the worst rush hour tie-up in the history of New York and Brooklyn. Tens of thousands of home-rushers were jammed at the Brooklyn Bridge and at the stations of the subway and L lines. Several crowded trains were stalled under East River and it was only by the utmost tact on the part of the trainmen that panics were averted.

The tie-up was caused by a blowout in the Kent Ave. powder house, in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn which was accompanied by a short circuit and small fire. This shut the power off over the entire B. R. T., system.

Police reserves were hurried to the Brooklyn Bridge and other points to preserve order among the crowds.

At 9:30 congestion at both ends of the East River bridges had been cleared and traffic had become normal.

Early in the tie-up Mayor Hylan stationed himself at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn Bridge and assumed personal charge of the hundreds of police required to handle the crowds.

The most spectacular feature of the tie-up was the imprisonment of hundreds of subway riders in trains under the river.

BODIES RECOVERED FROM SCIOTO RIVER

Columbus, July 26—The bodies of Henry Breitneicher, and Arnold Rohner, Jr., 11, were recovered from the Scioto river here by police. Search is being continued for the body of Howard Fritz, 14, believed to have been the third member of an ill fated swimming party.

The three lads left their homes Tuesday morning and failed to return. The operator of a dredging machine, while dredging sand from the bottom of the river, caught sight of a boy's body that was brought to the surface, by the scoop, and then fell back into the river.

Police were notified and with their discovery of three piles of clothing along the river bank, first intimations of the tragic fate of the lads became known.

She said she would appear to file charges Wednesday morning, and when she failed to do so Judge Smith considered the opportunity good to collect an old fine for disorderly conduct which is unpaid.

SUMMER CREAMS

A thick greasy cream is too heavy for hot weather and should only be used now if the complexion is very d—, or if deep wrinkles are being treated. If the cold cream is too heavy it would make the skin perspire in hot weather and irritate it.

The best general cream for Summer weather is an ordinary white mineral oil. My formula is:

White Wax	1 ounce
Spermaceti	1 ounce
Almond Oil	1-2 ounce
White Mineral Oil	4 1-2 ounces
Rose Water	1 1-2 ounces
Borax	30 grains
Oil of Bitter Almond	15 drops

This made in the usual way by heating the oils, wax, and spermaceti together until blended, adding the slightly warmed rosewater and borax beating the whole as it cools and pouring off before it hardens into jars. Such a cream is not only cleansing but helps to keep the skin soft and helps prevent sunburn.

Lettuce creams, cucumber creams and lotions are excellent for Summertime use. Honey almond lotion, which is more difficult to make, is coling, soothing, bleaching and good for the complexion with a tendeny to early wrinkles. It is not cleansing however, and should be used after the face has been bathed, not before as a cleansing cream.

Unless you like sunburn it is a good suggestion to have all your Summer cosmetics bleaching. For instance, use a cleansing cucumber cream or cleansing cucumber lotion or use the honey almond lotion when the skin is too dry from exposure to wind and sun. Use a bleaching soap, preferably oatmeal. In spite of all these precautions you may tan, but not to such an annoying extent.

Patience:—You can reduce the excess fat over your shoulders through exercising. If you can play tennis or row a boat you will be able to accomplish this. The fat will be consumed and the muscles made firm.

Dimples:—The juice from cucumbers will bleach the skin after a simple case of tanning. If a stronger bleach is needed make an extract from the cucumbers. To do this you cut the vegetable into small pieces, cover with water and stew gently until all becomes a pulp. Strain this matter through a fine white cloth. If the extract is to be kept for any lengh of time, either alcohol or some other presratives will have to be added to it. At this season it is best to make it fresh, whenever needed. Make the year's supply at the end of the season when cucumbers are plentiful.

COST OF LIVING IN U. S. UP 66 PER CENT

Washington, July 26.—The cost of living in the United States has risen 66.6 per cent since 1914, according to figures made public today by the department of labor.

In spite of this rise however, prices now are not at the peak figures showed, as the cost of living in June, 1922 was 23 per cent lower than it was in June 1920.

Food prices were higher in June than in March, while clothing, fuel and light and other staples were slightly lower.

HAND TO MOUTH

Mansfield, O., July 26—Coal dealers here are living a hand to mouth existence during the past few days and some of them are scraping the bottom of the bin. Prices on what little coal is being delivered is from $7 to 8 a ton. Coal is coming in a car load or two a day. One dealer said he had no coal and was taking orders only on condition the strike is settled and is making no guarantee as to time or price. Hard coal is as scarce as lump and nut coal. Manufacturers have a limited supply of coal on hand.

CAUSE OF AIRSHIP ACCIDENT OBSCURED

Washington, July 26.—The exact cause of the fatal plunge of the Giant army air ship Roma which crashed to earth near Norfolk, Va., last February, killing 34 of the 45 persons abroad, can never be known, according to the official report of the investigating board made public by the war department here today.

Had the Roma been equipped with a master switch by which the officer in command could have stopped all his motors instantly, the catastrophe might have been averted, the report declares and adds that the Roma also lacked "emergency ballast releases", regarded by the board as essential to the safety of such air craft.

If the Roma had been inflated with helium instead of hydrogen, "undoubtedly the loss of life in this accident would not have been so great" the report declares.

NOTHING TO DO BUT ACT AS BARNACLE FOOD.

AN IDLE FLEET.

Major Hamilton Maxwell, in an Aeromarine Flying Boat, made this photograph while flying over the Hudson River, in the vicinity of West Point, N. Y., where this huge fleet of U. S. Shipping Board vessels is riding at anchor, idle. The barnacles are finding life worth while on the keels of these ships.

NEW YORK TRAFFIC HALTED FOR TIME AS TROUBLE OCCURS

New York, July 26.—Every subway and elevated train and every trolley car in the B. R. T.'s great network system came to a sudden stop at 5:15 yesterday afternoon causing the worst rush hour tie-up in the history of New York and Brooklyn. Tens of thousands of home-rushers were jammed at the Brooklyn Bridge and at the stations of the subway and L lines. Several crowded trains were stalled under East River and it was only by the utmost tact on the part of the trainmen that panics were averted.

The tie-up was caused by a blowout in the Kent Ave. powder house, in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn which was accompanied by a short circuit and small fire. This shut the power off over the entire B. R. T., system.

Police reserves were hurried to the Brooklyn Bridge and other points to preserve order among the crowds.

At 9:30 congestion at both ends of the East River bridges had been cleared and traffic had become normal.

Early in the tie-up Mayor Hylan stationed himself at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn Bridge and assumed personal charge of the hundreds of police required to handle the crowds.

The most spectacular feature of the tie-up was the imprisonment of hundreds of subway riders in trains under the river.

BODIES RECOVERED FROM SCIOTO RIVER

Columbus, July 26—The bodies of Henry Breitneicher, and Arnold Rohner, Jr., 11, were recovered from the Scioto river here by police. Search is being continued for the body of Howard Fritz, 14, believed to have been the third member of an ill fated swimming party.

The three lads left their homes Tuesday morning and failed to return. The operator of a dredging machine, while dredging sand from the bottom of the river, caught sight of a boy's body that was brought to the surface, by the scoop, and then fell back into the river.

Police were notified and with their discovery of three piles of clothing along the river bank, first intimations of the tragic fate of the lads became known.

OLD FINE UNPAID IS CAUSE OF NEW ARREST

When Mrs. Sadie Franks backed out of filing a charge against her husband, Albert Franks, whose arrest she caused, Wednesday morning Police Judge E. D. Smith ordered her locked up pending payment of an old fine of $5 and costs.

Mrs. Franks charged that her husband locked her out of the house Tuesday night, and police arrested Franks and kept him locked up all night. She said she would appear to file charges Wednesday morning, and when she failed to do so Judge Smith considered the opportunity good to collect an old fine for disorderly conduct which is unpaid.

BEAUTY CHATS

SUMMER CREAMS

A thick greasy cream is too heavy for hot weather and should only be used now if the complexion is very dry, or if deep wrinkles are being treated. If the cold cream is too heavy it would make the skin perspire in hot weather and irritate it.

The best general cream for Summer weather is an ordinary white mineral oil. My formula is:

White Wax	1 ounce
Spermaceti	1 ounce
Almond Oil	1-2 ounce
White Mineral Oil	4 1-2 ounces
Rose Water	1 1-2 ounces
Borax	30 grains
Oil of Bitter Almond	15 drops

This made in the usual way by heating the oils, wax, and spermaceti together until blended, adding the slightly warmed rosewater and borax beating the whole as it cools and pouring off before it hardens into jars. Such a cream is not only cleansing but helps to keep the skin soft and helps prevent sunburn.

Lettuce creams, cucumber creams and lotions are excellent for Summertime use. Honey almond lotion, which is more difficult to make, is coling, soothing, bleaching and good for the complexion with a tendeny to early wrinkles. It is not cleansing however, and should be used after the face has been bathed, not before as a cleansing cream.

Unless you like sunburn it is a good suggestion to have all your Summer cosmetics bleaching. For instance, use a cleansing cucumber cream or cleansing cucumber lotion or use the honey almond lotion when the skin is too dry from exposure to wind and sun. Use a bleaching soap, preferably oatmeal. In spite of all these precautions you may tan, but not to such an annoying extent.

Patience:—You can reduce the excess fat over your shoulders through exercising. If you can play tennis or row a boat you will be able to accomplish this. The fat will be consumed and the muscles made firm.

Dimples:—The juice from cucumbers will bleach the skin after a simple case of tanning. If a stronger bleach is needed make an extract from the cucumbers. To do this you cut the vegetable into small pieces, cover with water and stew gently until all becomes a pulp. Strain this matter through a fine white cloth. If the extract is to be kept for any lengh of time, either alcohol or some other presrativs will have to be added to it. At this season it is best to make it fresh, whenever needed. Make the year's supply at the end of the season when cucumbers are plentiful.

COST OF LIVING IN U. S. UP 66 PER CENT

Washington, July 26.—The cost of living in the United States has risen 66.6 per cent since 1914, according to figures made public today by the department of labor.

In spite of this rise however, prices now are not at the peak figures showed, as the cost of living in June, 1922 was 23 per cent lower than it was in June 1920.

Food prices were higher in June than in March, while clothing, fuel and light and other staples were slightly lower.

HAND TO MOUTH

Mansfield, O., July 26—Coal dealers here are living a hand to mouth existence during the past few days and some of them are scraping the bottom of the bin. Prices on what little coal is being delivered is from $7 to 8 a ton. Coal is coming in a car load or two a day. One dealer said he had no coal and was taking orders only on condition the strike is settled and is making no guarantee as to time or price. Hard coal is as scarce as lump and nut coal. Manufacturers have a limited supply of coal on hand.

CAUSE OF AIRSHIP ACCIDENT OBSCURED

Washington, July 26.—The exact cause of the fatal plunge of the Giant army air ship Roma which crashed to earth near Norfolk, Va., last February, killing 34 of the 45 persons abroad, can never be known, according to the official report of the investigating board made public by the war department here today.

Had the Roma been equipped with a master switch by which the officer in command could have stopped all his motors instantly, the catastrophe might have been averted, the report declares and adds that the Roma also lacked "emergency ballast releases", regarded by the board as essential to the safety of such air craft.

If the Roma had been inflated with helium instead of hydrogen, "undoubtedly the loss of life in this accident would not have been so great" the report declares.

Columbus, July 26.—Because no definite building program has been determined upon the state board of control has refused to turn over the $500,000 appropriation to the state prison commission for improving the London prison farm. It is expected that E. C. Shaw, Columbus, president of the commission, will offer complete plans soon to the board.

PERSONAL PROPERTY TAX DUPLICATE IN GREENE COUNTY REDUCED BY MORE THAN MILLION AND HALF DOLLARS

With returns in virtually every district showing a big drop, the personal property tax duplicate in Greene county, this year, will be reduced by more than a million and a half of dollars in individual returns, under that of last year, according to tabulations made in the office of County Auditor R. O. Wead.

Two small districts, Clifton and Bellbrook, show gains of $450 and $400 respectively. Every other taxing district reduced its valuations by thousands.

"Less money on hand, reduced number of live stock owned by farmers, lower prices of stock, grain and all farm produce, the growing tendency to invest in non-taxable securities, and a natural inclination of people to retrench in making property returns because of the high tax rates," are reasons advanced by the auditor for the lowered valuations.

Last year individuals in the county returned property valued at $11,297,310. This year their returns are valued at $9,742,970. With the two small gains in Clifton and Bellbrook the net loss is $1,554,340.

The seventy-one incorporated companies, about half of which have their headquarters in Xenia, reduced their valuations this year by $251,000. Their property last year was valued at $2,491,110, while this year they gave in valuations amounting to $2,240,000.

The ten banks in the county make the only showing of increased valuations. Their returns this year were $989,910, against $949,600 last year an increase this year of $40,310.

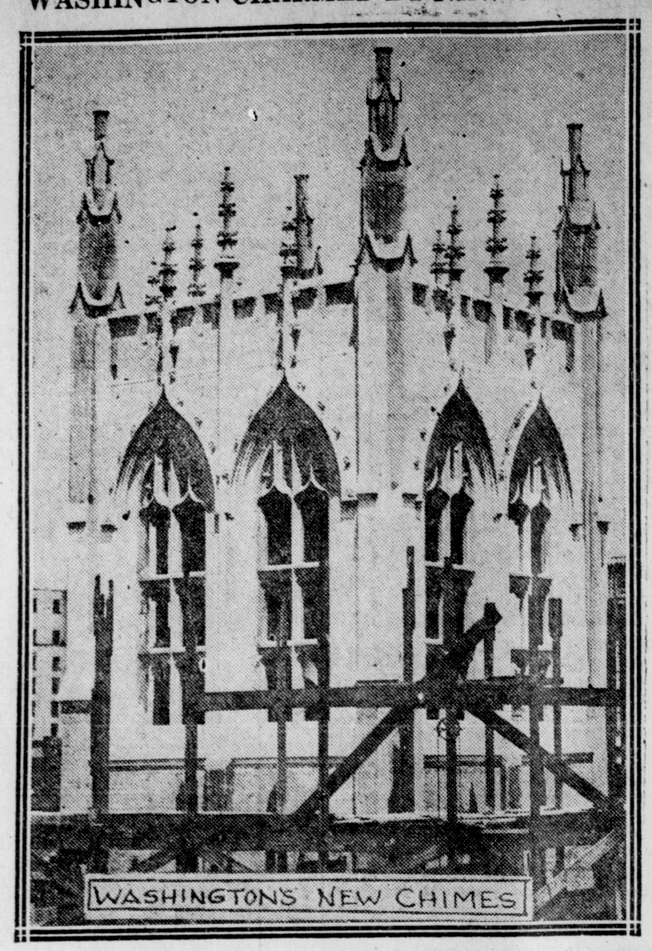

Xenia city is a heavy sufferer by the lowered valuations. In individual returns the muncipality's tax duplicate is lowered by $385,620 and the incorporated companies further decrease the duplicate here by $156,580.

Individuals in Xenia made returns this year totalling $1,934,060, against returns valued at $2,292,580 in 1921.

CINCINNATI PLANS BUS REGULATION

Cincinnati, July 26-.Cities throughout the state are banding the problem of motor bus transportation in a variety of ways, some of which are rather stringent, Street Railroad Director W. Jerome Kuertz has discovered while gathering data on which to base an ordinance governing motor bus operation in Cincinnati.

The growth of bus operation in Cincinnati recently has given the city officials much conern in the absence of governing regulations, it was said. It has been reported to Kuertz that there are now 16 different bus lines operating in Cincinnati and the nearby suburbs and that an expansion of the service is planned.

In Columbus the city charges a license fee of one half cent a mile on the total milage traveled. The lines are required to provide liability insurance to the extent of $15,000 a bus, with a maximum of $75,000 for five buses or more. The fare charged is five cents or six tickets for 25 cents to any point within the city limits.

In Cleveland the City Council reserves the right to change bus routes The license fee is fixed at $100 a year for a twelve passenger bus,, $150 up to 22 passengers and $200 over 22 passengers. Bond was fixed at $50,000 for either one or two buses and $20,000 for each additional bus.

In Toledo the Director of Public Safety governs the bus lines and may exclude them anywhere. The license fees range from $25 a year for a seating capacity of 10 passengers or less to $100 a year for a capacity of 30 passengers or more. Bonds are fixed at $5,000 for ten-passenger buses, $7,500 for 20 passengers and $10,000 for 20 passengers or more.

WILL NOT REFUSE SENIORITY RIGHTS

Cincinnati, Juuly 26.—John A. Morris, chairman of the Cincinnati operating committee, issued statement Monday in behalf of the lacal railroads denying that the owners intended eliminating seniority among their employes. The statement was in answer to one given out by B. M. Jewell, head o fthe railway department of the A. F. O. L., which Mr. Morris said was intended to deceive the public into thinking the railroads meant to do the strikers an injustice by depriving them of their seniority should they agree to return to work.

Mr. Morris declared that many of the strikers had expressed a willingness to return to work if their seniority were restored, and his statement was issued to remove anv difficulty that might be blocking the path to a peaceful settlement of the strike.

SHOE FACTORY WILL BE MOVED IS WORD

Cincinnati, July 26. —A sign announcing that the Cincinnati factory of the Val Duttenhofer sons Shoe Manufacturing company, which normally employes more than a thousand workers, was placed in the windows of the concern Monday along with the information that applications were being received for work at an out-of-town factory. Officials of the company announced that factories were being opened at Columbus and Circleville, O., and that the local plant was closed for all time unless the strikers agreed to accept a ten per cent cut which was made by the company.

Representatives of the men on strike said the announcement was a "bluff" to get the employes back on the job and asserted that the reduction asked was unfair because shoe workers in this city never were advanced to war time wages and should not be asked to accept cuts the same as men who were.

FAILS TO LAND AT RIGHT POINT SO SMASHES GLASS

Fred Barr, Jr., 18, packs a mighty wallop.

When he swings a nasty right to the jaw, anything in front of it is bound to be smashed.

The large plate glass window in the L. E. John billiard hall, East Main Street, was unfortunate enough to be in the way of Fred's wallop Tuesday evening and as a result Fred sent his fist through the glass, entailing considerable damage.

The mighty wallop was aimed for the jaw of Clarence Jones, 17, who exhibited some clever footwork and dodged the blow. The boys were taken into custody by police but released when Barr assumed responsibility for the broken glass and agreed to pay for it.

Nervousness In Children

Wednesday Health Talk No. 29.
By G. C. DONHOO, D. C.

Children quite often are nervous and irritable and quickly get over it, but where the child seems to have acquired the habit of being irritable, do not make up your mind it is a bad disposition, for it is rare that this is true. The irritable child is invariably the child that is sick. Sometimes it is the stomach, sometimes it is constipation, and sometimes it is directly due to spinal subluxations causing irritating pressure on spinal nerves.

The virtue of chiropractic in connection with children is that it usually gets quick results, much quicker than is possible with an adult. The muscles and ligaments of the spine are more pliable. A child with nervous colic is given such ease by adjustments as to stop its crying almost immediately. Constipation too, yields readily to adjustments. In all forms of nervousness it is extremely efficacious.

RESTORED CHILD'S NATURAL HAPPINESS AND SMILING FACE

"I must speak very highly of chiropractic spinal adjustments for they have done so much for my kiddies and myself. They have energized my little four-year old boy, made him happier and keeps him smiling, whereas before applying chiropractic adjustments he was quite irritable and nervous.

"I am so thankful to chiropractic that I would do anything possible to make people better acquainted with this wonderful new science of better health."—Mrs. M. A. Stolz, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1333M.

CINCINNATI PLANS BUS REGULATION

Cincinnati, July 26-.Cities throughout the state are banding the problem of motor bus transportation in a variety of ways, some of which are rather stringent, Street Railroad Director W. Jerome Kuertz has discovered while gathering data on which to base an ordinance governing motor bus operation in Cincinnati.

The growth of bus operation in Cincinnati recently has given the city officials much conern in the absence of governing regulations, it was said. It has been reported to Kuertz that there are now 16 different bus lines operating in Cincinnati and the nearby suburbs and that an expansion of the service is planned.

In Columbus the city charges a license fee of one half cent a mile on the total milage traveled. The lines are required to provide liability insurance to the extent of $15,000 a bus, with a maximum of $75,000 for five buses or more. The fare charged is five cents or six tickets for 25 cents to any point within the city limits.

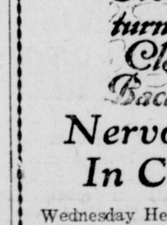

In Cleveland the City Council reserves the right to change bus routes The license fee is fixed at $100 a year for a twelve passenger bus,, $150 up to 22 passengers and $200 over 22 passengers. Bond was fixed at $50,000 for either one or two buses and $20,000 for each additional bus.

In Toledo the Director of Public Safety governs the bus lines and may exclude them anywhere. The license fees range from $25 a year for a seating capacity of 10 passengers or less to $100 a year for a capacity of 30 passengers or more. Bonds are fixed at $5,000 for ten-passenger buses, $7,500 for 20 passengers and $10,000 for 20 passengers or more.

RIVER CLAIMS VICTIM

Cincinnati, July 26—Giffin Forste 24, of Norwood, O., was drowned last Monday in the Little Miami river near Miamiville when he waded out into the stream and stepped into a hole. One of his two brothers who were with him, at the time narrowly escaped a like fate, but was pulled out of the river by a girl and a man who linked hands and leaned far out to catch hold of the drowning boy.

WILL NOT REFUSE SENIORITY RIGHTS

Cincinnati, Juuly 26.—John A. Morris, chairman of the Cincinnati operating committee, issued statement Monday in behalf of the lacal railroads denying that the owners intended eliminating seniority among their employes. The statement was in answer to one given out by B. M. Jewell, head o rthe railway department of the A. F. O. L., which Mr. Morris said was intended to deceive the public into thinking the railroads meant to do the strikers an injustice by depriving them of their seniority should they agree to return to work.

Mr. Morris declared that many of the strikers had expressed a willingness to return to work if their seniority were restored, and his statement was issued to remove anv difficulty that might be blocking the path to a peaceful settlement of the strike.

SHOE FACTORY WILL BE MOVED IS WORD

Cincinnati, July 26. —A sign announcing that the Cincinnati factory of the Val Duttenhofer sons Shoe Manufacturing company, which normally employes more than a thousand workers, was placed in the windows of the concern Monday along with the information that applications were being received for work at an out-of-town factory. Officials of the company announced that factories were being opened at Columbus and Circleville, O., and that the local plant was closed for all time unless the strikers agreed to accept a ten per cent cut which was made by the company.

Representatives of the men on strike said the announcement was a "bluff" to get the employes back on the job and asserted that the reduction asked was unfair because shoe workers in this city never were advanced to war time wages and should not be asked to accept cuts the same as men who were.

ARMY OFFICERS INDICTED BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY

Los Angeles, July 26.—Major Max Elser of the U. S. army quartermaster corps and Captain Frank Tingley, U. S. A., were indicted yesterday by the federal grand jury here, together with six dealers in army supplies, charged with conspiring to defraud the U. S. government by manipulating sales of such supplies at Camp Kearney.

FAILS TO LAND AT RIGHT POINT SO SMASHES GLASS

Fred Barr, Jr., 18, packs a mighty wallop.

When he swings a nasty right to the jaw, anything in front of it is bound to be smashed.

The large plate glass window in the L. E. John billiard hall, East Main Street, was unfortunate enough to be in the way of Fred's wallop Tuesday evening and as a result Fred sent his fist through the glass, entailing considerable damage.

The mighty wallop was aimed for the jaw of Clarence Jones, 17, who exhibited some clever footwork and dodged the blow. The boys were taken into custody by police but released when Barr assumed responsibility for the broken glass and agreed to pay for it.

ACCUSES MAN IN DYING STATEMENT OF MURDER

New York July 26.—Miss Bertha Katz, 28, of Sterling Place, Brooklyn, died in St. John's hospital, Brooklyn, today from three bullet wounds.

She said that the shooting took place in the bedroom of her home and, according to the police, she accused Morris Reisler, son of Mrs. John J. Reisler, of New York, whose husband is known as "John the Barber."

Morris Reisler, his brother George 18, his mother and Max Katz a brother of the dead woman, were detained by the Brooklyn police on a charge of homicide.

Health turns the Clock Backward

Nervousness In Children

Wednesday Health Talk No. 29.
By G. C. DONHOO, D. C.

Children quite often are nervous and irritable and quickly get over it, but where the child seems to have acquired the habit of being irritable, do not make up your mind it is a bad disposition, for it is rare that this is true. The irritable child is invariably the child that is sick. Sometimes it is the stomach, sometimes it is constipation, and sometimes it is directly due to spinal subluxations causing irritating pressure on spinal nerves.

The virtue of chiropractic in connection with children is that it usually gets quick results, much quicker than is possible with an adult. The muscles and ligaments of the spine are more pliable. A child with nervous colic is given such ease by adjustments as to stop its crying almost immediately. Constipation too, yields readily to adjustments. In all forms of nervousness it is extremely efficacious.

RESTORED CHILD'S NATURAL HAPPINESS AND SMILING FACE

"I must speak very highly of chiropractic spinal adjustments for they have done so much for my kiddies and myself. They have energized my little four-year old boy, made him happier and keeps him smiling, whereas before applying chiropractic adjustments he was quite irritable and nervous.

"I am so thankful to chiropractic that I would do anything possible to make people better acquainted with this wonderful new science of better health."—Mrs. M. A. Stolz, Chiropractic Research Bureau, Statement No. 1333M.

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

EGGS IN THE SUPPER MENU.

Eggs are the housewife's standby in warm weather. They are so easy to prepare! They may be a little more expensive than some other foods, but the housekeeper must think of herself as well as of her pocketbook; it is sometimes, on an exhaustingly hot day, the better economy to serve a dish that takes litle time and energy to prepare, rather than a dish that costs a few cents less (it saves doctor bills!) Try this supper menu with any one of the following egg dsihes as the main dish:

Main Dish of Eggs
Graham Bread
Iced Tea Peach Pie

Venetian Eggs: Melt one heaping tablespoon of butter in a saucepan, and dd one cup of grated or finely-chopped mild cheese; stir this, over mild heat until the cheese is melted, then pour into it one cup of strained tomato juice. When the mixture begins to thicken, add three eggs which have been slightly beaten. Let cook two minutes. Season with salt and pepper and service on slives of toast, or on crackers, at once.

Macaroni-Egg Dish: Break one-fourth pound of macaroni into a saucepan of rapidly boiling water, add one teaspoon of butter and let cook till tender. Then drain and put a layer of it into a thickly buttered baking dish or casserole; add a layer of sliced hardboiled eggs, dusting the eggs with salt and pepper,; follow with more of the macaroni, then more of the eggs and seasoning alternating these layers till the dish is full. You will need four or five hardboiled eggs for the one fourth pound of macaroni. Finish with a macaroni layer. Make a white sauce by heating one cup of milk to the boiling point, seasoning it with salt and pepper to taste, adding one tablespoon of butter and thickening it with one tablespoon of flour mixed to a paste in a little cold water. Pour this hot white sauce over the macaroni-egg layers, and sprinkle finely chopped mild cheese on top. Dot with bits of butter and bake in a hot oven ten minutes. Serve hot.

Potato-Egg Dish: Follow the above given recipe for Macaroni Egg Dish, simply substituting six medium sized potatoes, boiled and sliced, for the one-fourth pound of macaroni. A little chopped parsley may be added the layers if liked.

Eggs in Tomatoes (fine for a guest supper): Wipe large, ripe tomatoes and cut a round piece from the stalk end. Remove enough pulp to leave room for one egg. Drop the eggs carefully into these holes, first sprinkling with a very little salt and pepper into the tomato. Put a small pieces of butter on top of each egg sprinkle chopped cheese over all and slip the tomatoes into a hot oven, on a buttered pan, until the white of the eggs are set. Serve hot.

Tomorrow—Canning Paches and Plums.

A Stenographer's Romance

BY JANE PHLEPS

NELLIE IN HER NEW POSITION

Monday morning Nellie was up early making herself nice enough for her new job, so she told the girls. Yet she insisted upon getting the breakfast as usual and in clearing away.

"If it turns out to be a hard job, and I get good pay, we'll take turns, each take a week at it," she answered their objections. "And if I am too tired, or they pay me so much I don't know what to do with it, I'll hire a girl when it comes my week."

"That's a good idea, Nellie—not your hiring a girl—but for each of us to take our turn doing the housework," Cora said. "I wonder none of us thought of it before."

"You and I were too comfortable letting Nellie do it," Gladys declared. "Why work when we didn't have to?"

Before Nellie came into their lives both Gladys and Cora had been far too serious for ther ages, took themselves too seriously. The gay little Nellie, who always had a joke and a smile, no matter how dark things looked had been good for both of them. They realized this and often said they owed her far more than she did thm.

"You look very nice this morning, Nellie," Cora said as the three girls started out together. They could do this now as they left the subway at the same station, were expected at their respective offices at about the same time.

"I'll come up to the scratch all right own," Nellie said patting her while cuff. Her gloves and shoes were mended, but the one was clean, the other polished until the patch scarcely showed.

"If you suit them you'll soon be able to buy yourself all you need," Gladys consoled. She had seen the rueful glance Nellie cast at her feet.

"You girls will hav to spend your Saturday afternoons shopping with me when I get enough ahead to buy anything!"

"We'll be only too glad to! You aren't the only one who loves pretty thing," Gladys replied.

"Wish me luck, girls," Nellie said when she left them. "My knees are knocking together already. And I've got queer, little tingly things playing tag up and down my spine." She looked flushed and excited.

"Don't let them see you are nervous," Cora advised. "Walk slowly, you've plenty of time, and quiet yourself before you get there."

"I" come up to the scratch all right when the time comes! I always used to get this way when I was sneaking away from Miss Cartr, but once I got where I was going, I never thought of being afraid—of her or anybody."

"It was a very composed Nellie who answered the few questions put her by the old gentleman into whose private office she was taken.

"You look very young, but I have every faith in Miss McBride, in her judgment and she says your reference was all that could be desired." He had bidden her to be seated, had smiled kindly as h talked. Yet was very business like.

"I shall do my very best," Nellie answered, "and I can't help being young."

A quick smile lit his eyes, as he answered:

"No—and thank God for your youth, your health." Then: "Please get ready to take dictation. This is a very busy place. We haven't much time to get acquainted, save through our work."

He kept Nellie busy until lunch time. As he dismissed her he said:

"Because you are so young I am going to give you a bit of advice. Eat a good, warm luncheon. No one can work properly if not properly fed. Cut out the fancy things, especially in hot weather, but eat plenty of plain food."

"Yes, sir. That's what Cora tells me. We all eat hot lunches, and then have a cold dinner."

"Who is Cora?" Smiling the man arose.

"The girl I live with. She's older than I am, and so good."

"I see you did not need my advice, but remember it just the same. You have an hour."

Nellie felt as if she were walking on air. He had not praised her work; but he had found no fault. And she thought she noticed a pleased look on his face when she laid her pile of neatly written letterse on his desk.

She was to meet Cora at luncheon. They would often be able to see each other at the noon hour. She almost ran to the little restaurant, so anxious was she to tell of her new place—her employer.

Efficient Housekeeping

EGGS IN THE SUPPER MENU.

Eggs are the housewife's standby in warm weather. They are so easy to prepare! They may be a little more expensive than some other foods, but the housekeeper must think of herself as well as of her pocketbook; it is sometimes, on an exhaustingly hot day, the better economy to serve a dish that takes litle time and energy to prepare, rather than a dish that costs a few cents less (it saves doctor bills!) Try this supper menu with any one of the following egg dsihes as the main dish:

Main Dish of Eggs
Graham Bread
Iced Tea Peach Pie

Venetian Eggs: Melt one heaping tablespoon of butter in a saucepan, and dd one cup of grated or finely-chopped mild cheese; stir this, over mild heat until the cheese is melted, then pour into it one cup of strained tomato juice. When the mixture begins to thicken, add three eggs which have been slightly beaten. Let cook two minutes. Season with salt and pepper and service on slives of toast, or on crackers, at once.

Macaroni-Egg Dish: Break one-fourth pound of macaroni into a saucepan of rapidly boiling water, add one teaspoon of butter and let cook till tender. Then drain and put a layer of it into a thickly buttered baking dish or cassérole; add a layer of sliced hardboiled eggs, dusting the eggs with salt and pepper,; follow with more of the macaroni, then more of the eggs and seasoning alternating these layers till the dish is full. You will need four or five hardboiled eggs for the one fourth pound of macaroni. Finish with a macaroni layer. Make a white sauce by heating one cup of milk to the boiling point, seasoning it with salt and pepper to taste, adding one tablespoon of butter and thickening it with one tablespoon of flour mixed to a paste in a little cold water. Pour this hot white sauce over the macaroni-egg layers, and sprinkle finely chopped mild cheese on top. Dot with bits of butter and bake in a hot oven ten minutes. Serve hot.

Potato-Egg Dish: Follow the above given recipe for Macaroni Egg Dish, simply substituting six medium sized potatoes, boiled and sliced, for the one-fourth pound of macaroni. A little chopped parsley may be added the layers if liked.

Eggs in Tomatoes (fine for a guest supper): Wipe large, ripe tomatoes and cut a round piece from the stalk end. Remove enough pulp to leave room for one egg. Drop the eggs carefully into these holes, first sprinkling with a very little salt and pepper into the tomato. Put a small pieces of butter on top of each egg sprinkle chopped cheese over all and slip the tomatoes into a hot oven, on a buttered pan, until the white of the eggs are set. Serve hot.

Tomorrow—Canning Paches and Plums.
